I will probably be closed up in a short while, as my sky-light will be stopped up by the wall of the new building now being erected adjoin-

Peck's Bad Boy and His Pa.

"Well, Henery, I am sorry to find you in this fix," said the groceryman as he tiptoed into the darkened room at the house of the bad boy, where he found him in bed, propped up with pillows, a pallor on his face that was frightful, and a general look of gones-ness. "Your pa tells me you have been sick nearly a week. I thought things at the grocery were going along in a solemn sort of a manner. Don't hurt you to talk to you does it?" and the groceryman looked around for a chair to sit down in.

"Naw, it don't hurt," said the bad boy, as he motioned to a chair, and the groceryman sat down. "If talking would kill me I would have been dead long ago. By the way, I wish you would hand me that mustard plaster. You will find it in the chair you are setting on," and the boy smiled a sickly smile, while the groceryman got up as though he were in a hurry, and apologized for sitting on the plaster. "No apology necessary," said the bad boy. "When anybody comes to see me they are welcome to the best we have got. A soft answer turneth away wrath, and a mustard plaster covereth a multitude of pneumonia," and Henery applied the plaster to his chest, and asked the groceryman to hand him a box of pills on the table. The groceryman handed the boy a box of pills and a glass of water, and he took a small handful of pills and a swallow of water, smacked his lips and said:

"Ah! A nectar fit for gods. Do you know there is something about being sick that takes the cake? You can lay and sleep, or raise up and cough. And then, the beautiful medicine the doctor leave! I take it because it pleases the doctor. He is a nice man, but I don't think a man can feel of your pulse and listen to the mocking birds in your heart by holding his ear on your shirt, and tell what is the matter with you. Gim me a drink. Now I want you to do something for me, as I may not pull through, and pa is so busy in politics that he can't attend to anything.
Are you there, Moriaty?"

"Yes, yes," said the groceryman, as he saw the boy had something he wanted to say, "out with it now, and I will do anything you ask me to."
"Well, you know that man without any legs, that plays the hand-organ down on the corner. I want you to take my skates to him and tell him—"

"Great heavens!" said the grocery-man, "what do you want to send a pair of skates to a man that hasn't got any legs for?"

"Don't interrupt the speaker," said the bad boy, as he took a pill for a change.
"Take the skates to him, and tell him I lead them to him until I get well.
He has got three boys, and they are poor to buy skates, and they can take turns using mine, and I shall not miss them, for if I live the skating will be all gone before I get out doors and if I die, there will be no skating where I am going."

"O, say, hush up now," said the groceryman. "You are not half so sick as you think you are, and there is no hurry about your dividing up your worldly goods. In a day or two you will be out as good as new, making it interesting for all of us.
What was the hired girl laughing at when she let me in! She said something about your scaring the folks out of seven years growth, just before you were taken sick," and the groceryman thought if he could get the sick boy talking about something funny it would cure him.

"Well, said the boy, as he laughed so the skin was drawn across his pinched face, "it was awful mean, but ma wanted to know what time pa got home nights, since he has got to working the ward for alderman.
You see he comes in at all times of the night, and tries to keep still so as to not wake ma up. He comes in and undresses in the dark, and retires and ma don't wake up. I have got a friend working in a jewelry store, and got him to lend me six of those little alarm clocks, and I wound them all up, and placed around the house where I could touch them off when pa came in. I put one on the hatrack, and when pa came in just after midnight I touched it off just as he put his hat on the hat rack and crept half way up stairs in the dim light. Pa was trying to be quiet, and when that alarm went off he looked sick. He didn't know what it was but he just stood still, with his overcoat half off, and waited for the thing to run down, and he was listening all the time to see if ma woke up. I had told ma to pretend to be asleep until the last one went off, which I had placed on the foot of the bed, and then for her to get up and begin to throw chairs.
Pa started up stairs as soon as the clock stopped, in his stocking feet, and just as he got half way up stairs I touched off the second alarm, and pa stopped and I went up to the head of the stairs to get another one ready. Pa got hold of the clock and tried to stop the noise by holding it under his coat, and he listened for ma some more, but ma didn't show up. When the clock got through sputtering pa came on up stairs, and at the top the third one went off, and then he was mad. He thought that would wake ma up but she snored right along through

EDITOR SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:

For several weeks I have been eager to write you a short letter, but my time has been so employed until the last few days that writing was an impossibility. Now as I am having a few hours of leisure each day, I will venture to write you.

On the 10th of last July I started from Kentucky to Iowa, was only twenty four hours on the road, landing at Strawberry Point on the next day. Thus have eight months passed rapidly since I bade farewell to Kentucky perhaps never to return again.

All of my time has been spent in and around this place since my coming. We are yet in the midst of winter, with the snow three feet deep and as I write it is falling rapidly. Almost every day this month it has snowed. Since the 15th of December the ground has not been visible on account of so much snow, consequently we have had three solid months of good sleighing. Since that time we have not seen a vehicle on wheels except cars and many have suggested that they be put on runners. Let the wind begin to blow and continue for two or three hours and we have a blockade for a few days and this is the case at present. It takes the continued efforts of all the snow shovelers to keep the roads open, and what snow will blow into the cuts in a few hours time. All along the railroad may be seen almost mountains of snow. Thus while you have had such an abundant crop of snow, this is the case at present. It takes the continued ef-
